HOW AN INDIANA GIRL

Got Strong and Well Again At Small Cost.

Miss Alta Abel of West Baden, Ind., says: "I was a complete wreck, all ways, tired, worn out and nervous. I had to spend about one-third of my time in bed and my life was not worth living. Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic was recommended, and it has done me more good than all the medicine ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained in health, flesh and strength, until I feel like another person."

Vinol is the most efficient strength creator for such women. It is the medicinal elements of the cod's liver contained in Vinol, aided by the blood making and strengthening properties of tonic iron which makes it so far superior to all other tonics to build up health and strength for weak, tired, ailing women. It contains no oil and has a delicious taste. We give back your money if Vinol does not do all that we claim. Write to P. S. If you have any skin trouble try Saxo Salve. We guarantee it.

LIBERNIANS' JOINT INSTALLATION

Have United For This Ceremony Social Session Followed.

The largest, most enthusiastic and probably most important meeting which the Ancient Order of Hibernians ever conducted in Norwich was held jointly by Divisions one and two Sunday evening in Hibernian hall, the session being featured by the installation of officers of both divisions by County President James J. Finnegan. Following installation two candidates of Division one were initiated in full form. There were interesting and entertaining remarks on the order by various speakers, Irish History and American Citizenship being touched upon as well as various matters incident to the business affairs of the order. A smoker with music and refreshments concluded the programme in a fitting manner. There was a record number in attendance.

County President Finnegan installed the following officers: First division—President, E. Pratt; vice president, Patrick F. Brennan; financial secretary, Daniel J. Upon the conclusion of the formal part of the programme, a social session was rendered by Rodger Tighe and Patrick O'Connor, and quartette numbers were given by Francis J. Brennan and the Irish division. The grand march was given by the grand marshal, Robert Mahoney gave entertaining violin selections and Henry La Fontaine presided at the piano. Refreshments and cigars were passed by the committee in charge.

Reports from both divisions showed big increase in membership during the past year and both look forward to a banner year in 1913. They propose to add impetus to the campaign for new members by open meetings. State Chaplain Rev. Edward Flannery of Hazardville is expected to speak on one of the nights.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Daniel J. O'Neill, John E. Donnelly and Thomas F. Moran, and assisted by the grand marshal, Frank J. Murtha, John F. McLaughlin, Joseph D. Pfeiffer and John E. Reardon from the second division.

LEXINGTON CLOTH

Burning of Stenington Steamer 73 Years Ago Today Recalled—Second Mate Saved on Cotton Bale.

The burning of the steamer Lexington on Long Island sound 73 years ago, is still remembered by some of the older people. The Lexington plied between New York and Stonington, and was a staunch new vessel and at that time was considered very large. January 13th (Monday afternoon) at 4 o'clock the Lexington left her pier here on board 107 persons, passengers and crew, with a heavy cargo. A considerable portion of the freight was cotton, pressed in four hundred pound bales.

The weather was extremely cold. The wind cut like a knife and the sea was rough and turbid with waves. The steamer was off Huntington, L. I., when the flames were first seen rising from the island shore and around the engines, burning like a volcano when discovered. Captain Childs and Pilot Manchester headed the steamer for Long Island shore where the tug, the tug lines running to the rudder snapped and the steamer was helpless.

Four Saved Out of 107.

The crew tried to launch the lifeboats, but the new vessel, of the 107 people on board but 4 survived the sad disaster. One of the four saved was second mate or the Lexington, David Crowley, who, in his escape was most miraculous of all. Finding refuge on a cotton bale he found one of the hoops broken and the cotton protruding. The handful of cotton he pulled out and stuffed into his coat to keep from freezing.

Drifted 50 Miles.

His suffering not only from cold but of hunger and thirst were extreme, for it was not until 9 o'clock Wednesday evening that the now much water-logged bale drifted ashore over 50 miles from where the Lexington was wrecked. Crowley kept the bale and had it at his home in Providence as late as 1882. Cotton then being very high on account of the Civil war, he was induced to sell it. At the factory where it was manufactured, they gave the cloth from it the name of Lexington cloth, and from this circumstance started the famous Lexington brand, seen on so many thousand coats of cotton goods in every market of the world.

Andrew Polakropoulos Made Charge Against Peter and Harry Johnson.

With a somewhat battered face that supported his statement, Andrew Polakropoulos came to police headquarters about 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening, accusing two brothers, Peter Johnson and Harry Johnson, of assaulting him. The fracas took place, he said, in White's court, and he had come on to complain to the police.

Chief Linton at once sent out Policemen Smith and T. Murphy to bring in the Johnson brothers. They soon appeared and were taken to police headquarters and gave himself up on charge of breach of the peace, but the officers released him on his own recognizance, furnished by a Franklin square business man.

REDUCED TARIFF WOULD ### BE A HANDICAP

Hopkins & Allen Co. Files Brief with Ways and Means Committee in Congress.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

In a brief filed with the ways and means committee of congress Friday at Washington Hopkins & Allen of Norwich maintain that the present duty on each of the 300 different articles of yalorum on pistols just about marks the difference in wages paid between the shop and factories in Belgium. The duty on the flouring machine, employees number about 800 workmen, all grown men with a large proportion of the men are married and pay from $15 to $20 per week of 44 hours, while in Belgium the operatives are largely women and children and they receive from $4 to $5 per week working from 60 to 65 hours.

They declare that there is no working agreement of any kind between the American makers of pistols and the competition between all of them. They conclude their appeal to the committee as follows:

"We are subject to hostile legislation at home and earnestly hope that a reduced tariff will not be added to our other handicaps."

REV. J. H. BRODERICK'S REPORT.

Receipts of St. Patrick's Parish Last Year $23,492—Note of $3,000 Paid—Rector Wants Poor Well Cared For—Recalls Those Who Wander to Other Parishes.

At the three masses in St. Patrick's church Sunday the rector, Rev. John H. Broderick, read the annual parish report, a statement most gratifying to the congregation.

At the beginning of 1912 there was a balance of over $400 in the parish treasury. The total receipts from all sources the past year were $23,492. The total disbursements amounted to $22,553.86, including the payment of a note of $3,000. The balance Jan. 1, 1913, was $838.14.

During last year over $1,100 was expended for orphans and poor, and Rev. Broderick warmly commended the Catholic Women's club, the members of which raised the greater part of this by their annual charity ball and other entertainments. He emphasized the duty of the parish to provide for the needy, and expressed the hope that every family in the parish should have a child in the parish charity ball of the Catholic Women's club the most successful ever held, that a larger fund than ever might be provided for the needy.

Father Broderick referred to the admirable work done by his predecessor, Hugh Treanor, now of Waterbury.

He censured certain parishioners who, from motives of convenience, frequently attend mass in other parish churches, thus neglecting the duty of such to show loyalty to and interest in their own parish church by assisting at its various services.

It is his purpose, he explained, to begin work as soon as practicable on the new addition to St. Mary's cemetery, the new St. Mary's church, the operation of his people, that he might be enabled to accomplish this work successfully.

The high mass yesterday, the first Sunday after Epiphany, was celebrated by Rev. Thomas A. Grumby. At 10 o'clock the choir sang a beautiful Ave Maria.
